THE REPUBLICAN.

Established 1869. BELLEFONTE, PA., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1911. Vol. 41 No 33.

AN AUTOMOBILE AND OTHER PRIZES GIVEN AWAY FREE BY THE REPUBLICAN

PRISON SITE NOW UP TO STATE ENGINEERS

Warden Francies About Through His Tour of Inspection.

BELLEFONTE MAY WIN

Examination of Centre County Sites Will be Made Unknown to Owners of Lands —Mr. Francies is Expected Here Again this Week.

Whether Bellefonte is to capture the prize of the proposed new State penitentiary and farm prison, or whether it is to go to Clearfield or Huntingdon County is now largely a matter for the State's engineers to determine. With the return to Bellefonte of Warden John Francies some day this week for a final inspection of the McBride's Gap site, the work of examining sites will have been virtually completed so far as he is concerned.

It will be up to the State's engineers to report on every desirable site inspected by Warden Francies. It is no longer a secret that he looks with favor on the McBride's Gap and Potters Mills sites. The Potters Mills site is said to contain not only the required amount of stone but also to have the necessary water capacity. The McBride's Gap site contains the necessary stone and may have all the water needed to cover the requirements of thirty or fifty years hence.

When the State's engineers make their tour of inspection they will not be heralded with a brass band. Their identity will not be revealed and they will come and go unknown to the owners of each site to be inspected. Their report will be submitted to the State Prison Board. Should any two or more sites meet all requirements, as shown by the report of the State's engineers, the recommendation of Warden Francies will largely determine which shall be chosen.

WEDDING BELLS RING

Miss Myrtle E. Barnhart Becomes Bride of Professor Arthur C. Harper.

With no pretense of display, with everything in fact arranged with a view to simplicity, the wedding on Monday morning, last of Miss Myrtle E. Barnhart and Professor Arthur C. Harper, both of Bellefonte, was a pretty event. The ceremony was performed at 11.45 o'clock, at the Protestant Episcopal church, Rev. John Hewitt officiating. The guests were members of the immediate families of the contracting parties. The one disappointing feature of the event was the absence of the groom's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Harper. Mr. Harper is in a Philadelphia hospital, where he recently underwent an operation of a minor character. Mrs. Harper is in the city with him and therefore both were unable to be home for the wedding.

Immediately following the ceremony at the church the bride and groom drove to Unionville, where they boarded a train and thus departed on their honeymoon. A number of the young friends of the groom had planned a boisterous serenade in his honor, but they were cleverly outwitted.

The groom is a popular young man, is a graduate of the Bellefonte High School and also of State College. He has been meeting with gratifying success as a teacher and at present is located in Columbus, Ohio, at which place he and his bride will go to housekeeping at once. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Barnhart and is popular with a large circle of friends. She is a splendid young lady and is qualified in every way to grace the new home which her husband has provided.

18 patients in the hospital.

FOUR DAYS CAMPAIGN FOR Y. M. C. A. MEMBERS

Six Teams to Start Hustling in Bellefonte on Monday.

JUDGE ORVIS UMPIRE

Hope Novel Plan Will Double Present Membership—To Announce Results Each Evening on Bulletin Board in Court House Diamond.

A four days campaign to double the membership of the Bellefonte Y. M. C. A. will be launched on Monday, next, with six hustling teams in the field. Judge Ellis L. Orvis will serve as umpire. The campaign will close on Thursday night. At the close of each day's campaigning the result will be announced on a mammoth bulletin board in the Court House diamond.

Each of the six teams will be under the direction of a captain, as follows: Henry C. Quigley, W. D. Zerby, Russell Blair, Herbert Parker, Professor Irvin O. Noll and Don Wallace. The race to secure the most memmbers for the Y. M. C. A. promises to become decidedly interesting, especially in the close of the campaign, when a whirlwind finish is looked for.

The new swimming pool, now nearing completion, constitutes a very popular feature for the Y. M. C. A. Another attractive feature is the Rhoads memorial reference library. The Ladies' Auxiliary have been actively canvassing the town for support for their branch of the work. Next week's novel campaign gives promise of results that will place the Y. M. C. A. in a prosperous condition for the winter months.

HER DRESS ON FIRE

Mrs. Edward Robb had Narrow Escape from Death; Was Slightly Burned.

Mrs. Edward Robb, whose home is in Logan Street, had a narrow escape from being burned to death on Wednesday morning. She probably owes her life to the fact that some of her clothing was made of wool and checked the flames which were started by a red hot coal coming into contact with her apron. As it was she was slightly burned about the hands and also on the back of her neck.

Mrs. Robb was cleaning ashes out of a stove at the time of the accident. A red hot coal happened to touch her apron and in an instant the flimsy material was burning from end to end. With her hands Mrs. Robb endeavored to extinguish the flames as she ran into the home of a neighbor. The fire from the burning apron quickly spread to other garments which she had on, but fortunately some of these were of wool and did not burn so rapidly. With the assistance of neighbors the fire was extinguished before the flames had reached Mrs. Robb's body. The accident created considerable excitement for a time.

Unprecedented Offer Made by Centre County's Leading Newspaper for the People who will Get Out and Avail Themselves of the Opportunity to Win.

By C. K. Greer.

Who would like to own an automobile?

Who would not devote a little of their spare time to pleasant and congenial work if they were to receive for their efforts an automobile?

Far surpassing the many generous offers that have been made in the past by The Republican comes the astounding offer that this paper will give away one automobile as the grand prize in the greatest list of gifts ever given away by a newspaper in a town the size of Bellefonte.

"How can it be done?" This is the question which many people will ponder over. It is easy to solve when it is recalled that the people of Centre county are loyal to the leading weekly in the county and always willing to give it generous support. In return The Republican offers the people a first class newsy paper and it is not afraid to venture such a generous offer as the present one.

It is needless to say what the result will be. Everything that The Republican has taken up has been a great success and the venture which is announced in full in this issue by far surpasses anything yet attempted.

Never before have the people of this section had the opportunity of winning such big rewards for easy and pleasant work. The first grand prize this paper is offering now is a big inducement, but in order that everyone may have a chance, the territory has been divided into districts and separate prizes have been announced for each.

THE CONTEST IS OPEN TO EVERYONE.

Any respectable woman, girl, man, boy, lodge or society can enter the contest and compete for the seven prizes. As a result, everyone may enter with a splendid chance for winning a valuable prize, no matter how much or how little time they are able to devote to the contest. It is strictly a competitive proposition in which there will be no element of luck or chance and the result will depend entirely upon the efforts of each contestant.

HOW TO WIN A PRIZE.

The object of the contest is to secure subscriptions to The Republican.

The candidates securing the most votes will win the prizes.

The way to secure votes is to get your friends and neighbors to pay a subscription to The Republican.

A coupon will be published every issue. This coupon, if neatly cut out and sent to the contest department, will count as votes for the candidate named thereon.

Candidates can secure subscriptions anywhere in the United States and are not confined to their own district. Write to your friends, no matter where they live.

WE WILL SEND A REPRESENTATIVE.

Cut out a nomination or information blank and mail it to the contest department and we will be glad to send a representative to fully explain the terms of the contest, and if you decide to enter, supply you with a receipt book and all necessary information. Or better still, come to the contest department yourself and have a talk with the manager.

THE TIME WILL PASS QUICKLY.

The few weeks of the contest will pass quickly, and if you want to be sure of the automobile or the other big prizes, an early start is advisable. Get your friends to help you. Those who get the earliest start will have the easiest work. See your friends, relatives and acquaintances and get their support before they promise it to a more enterprising candidate.

A little effort now will pay you big dividends. Fix your eye on one of the big prizes and start to win it today.

RULES AND CONDITIONS.

While it is not absolutely necessary before being voted for, a nomination blank which can be secured from The Republican office or cut from this paper, should be sent in for each candidate. A candidate may be nominated by any one provided such candidate be in good standing in their community. All questions as to eligibility will be finally determined by The Republican.

The Republican reserves the right to consolidate the districts should the leaders in one of the districts have less than 50,000 votes to their credit when the contest is half over. The same number of prizes will be awarded in the consolidated districts as were to be given in the districts which were consolidated, in the same manner as other district prizes are awarded.

SHOULD A TIE OCCUR.

In case of a tie for any of the prizes offered in this contest, the value of the prize or prizes thus tied for will be equally divided between the candidates who tie for same.

In accepting nomination all candidates must accept and agree to abide by above conditions.

WHO MAY ENTER THIS CONTEST.

Candidates in this contest do not have to be subscribers to the The Republican in order to enter; all that is necessary is to send in their name or names and addresses. The awards will be distributed as shown in another section of this announcement. Votes may be clipped from the paper or secured on subscriptions; the nomination blank will count for 1,000 (one thousand) votes for the person nominated. The votes that will appear in The Republican after opening date of the contest are good for the number of votes designated on their face if voted within one week from the date published.

INCREASE PURSES FOR RACES AT COUNTY FAIR

Business Men Contribute $300 to Make Prizes Attractive.

BIG WILD WEST SHOW

Free Exhibition Daily of Rough-riding, Fancy Shooting, Etc.—Stock and Fruit Exhibits Will be Especially Interesting.

Things are warming up for the big Centre County fair, which will be held on October 3, 4, 5 & 6. Appreciating that first-class horse racing is the biggest drawing card for any fair, and that the best races are held where the best prizes are offered, business men of Bellefonte will aid the fair management to the extent of $300, which will be added to the several purses on racing days.

The purses for the races on Wednesday and Thursday, heretofore amounting to $250, will thus be increased to $300, while the big free-for-all on Friday will have a purse of $400 instead of $300. There will be running races on each day. The fair management announce that quite a number of applications for entries have been received from horsemen throughout the State.

Tomkins wild west show will be a daily feature at the fair. It is announced thatithe exhibition will be free each day and that the program will include rough riding by cowboys, cowgirls and Indians, also fancy riding, shooting, etc.

The stock exhibit promises to be especially interesting. The Pennsylvania State College will have its usual fine exhibit. The Coleville band has been engaged for the week and the boys may be depended upon to give a good account of themselves.

Hurt at White Rock.

Stephen Zoliski, one of the employes of the Eyre-Shoemaker Construction Company, was badly injured while working at the White Rock quarries on Tuesday. He was caught by a slide of rock, which passed completely over him and inflicted painful cuts and bruises on the face and also fractured his right leg. Other workmen who were present at the time and witnessed the accident fully expected to find Zoliski dead after the heavy rock had passed over his body, but to their amazement he was not only alive but conscious. He was removed to the Bellefonte hospital, where his injuries were dressed.

Wedding at Pine Grove.

A wedding which will be of interest to a wide circle of friends will be held at 5 o'clock this afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Goss, at Pine Grove Mills, the contracting parties being their accomplished daughter, Miss Elsie M. Goss, and Waldo P. Corl. The groom-to-be is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Corl, of State College. He will be attended by his brother, Grover Corl. The bridesmaid will be Miss Bessie Martz, of Pine Grove Mills.

AUTO UPSETS CARRIAGE MRS. DAGGET INJURED

Meets With Accident While Driving In Allegheny Street

INJURIES NOT SERIOUS

Presence of Mind of Driver Prevented Runaway—Carriage Wrecked by Collision With Hazel Brothers Heavy Delivery Car.

Hazel Brothers' big auto delivery wagon on Monday afternoon crashed into W. L. Daggett's carriage, at Howard and Allegheny Street, toppling over the vehicle and slightly injuring Mrs. Lewis Daggett. The carriage was badly wrecked. But for the presence of mind of Hugo Hetcher, the colored boy who was driving the Daggett carriage, Mrs. Daggett might have been killed. Hetcher was thrown out of the carriage by the force of the collision. Fortunately he held onto the reins and prevented a runaway. The carriage was dragged a short distance. Mrs. Daggett was thrown out and dragged a few feet before the horse could be stopped. Her right leg was cut and sprained and she sustained painful bruises about the body. She suffered the most from shock and has since been in bed and under the care of a physician.

Had Mrs. Daggett not changed her plans for the afternoon her few months' old baby would also have figured in the accident. At the last moment she decided not to take the baby with her when she started out to call on her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Daggett, and accompany the latter and Miss Helen Boynton on a visit to the hospital. Just before starting on the return trip home Mrs. Daggett stopped at Green's drug store where she purchased a pacifier for her baby. When she was picked up in the street after the accident she was holding the pacifier in her hand and persons who saw this concluded that the baby also had been in the carriage. This gave rise to a rumor that the baby had been killed.

The accident happened about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The Daggett carriage was moving slowly out Allegheny Street. The Hazel delivery auto, on East Howard Street, was approaching Allegheny Street, traveling at a fairly good clip. The young man driving the car had his attention diverted for the instant by another boy who was trying to jump onto the car. He failed to notice the Daggett carriage in time to steer his car to the side and before anybody could realize just what had happened the auto crashed into the carriage and toppled it over upon its side. The front of the car struck the carriage squarely in the right side door and the right front wheel. The carriage was especially well built and the body and top were not crushed in. Had the carriage framework been less strong the heavy auto would have ground it up.

Mrs. Daggett, after the accident, was able to tell little about it. She said that she had noticed the auto approaching but assumed that it would turn into Allegheny Street and paid no further attention to it. An instant later she was horrified to see the auto loom up beside the door of the carriage. Mrs. Mollie Larimer, who was seated on a porch nearby, witnessed the accident. She said that the force of the collision had forced open the left side door of the carriage and that as the carriage toppled over Mrs. Daggett was thrown out. It is supposed that as she was thrown out Mrs. Daggett's dress caught in some part of the carriage and that this caused her to be dragged along the street. Her stocking was ripped into shreds and her right shoe was torn almost off. Her leg was cut and bruised about the knee and her ankle was severely sprained.

After stopping the horse the carriage driver picked up Mrs. Daggett. The latter was removed to her home, on East Linn Street, and there the extent of her injuries ascertained.

State Road Accepted.

Engineer Lemon, of the State Highway Department, at Harrisburg, on Thursday of last week formally inspected the recently constructed State road through Bellefonte. He pronounced it the best piece of State road in Pennsylvania and announced that the State formally accepted its share of the expense.

NATIVE OF HOWARD

Philip Q. Jobson, Former Centre Countian, Dies at Lock Haven.

Philip Q. Jobson, a well known and respected citizen of the Fourth ward, died at his home, No 287 South Jones Street, at 11:20 o'clock Wednesday evening, September 13, aged 57 years, says the Lock Haven Express. Mr. Jobson had been ill for nine months, and his death is due to locomotor ataxia and a complication of diseases. Since June 13 he had been bedfast but he bore his suffering during all that time without complaint.

Deceased was born in Howard, Centre county and came to Lock Haven when only four years of age, having therefore been a resident of the city for over half a century. He was a man that bore the good will and esteem of a host of friends and neighbors, and his death will be regretted. Having been a kind, loving husband and father his absence in the household will be greatly regretted

For about 25 years Mr. Jobson was an employe of the Pennsylvania railroad and served as a car repairer in the lower freight yards. He was a member of Trinity M. E. church and also of the Knights of Pythias.

Deceased is survived by his wife, one step-son, Robert Cook, two daughters, Mrs. Harry Rogers and Mrs. William E. Stevenson, and by five grandchildren as follows: Margaret and Sarabelle Cook, Philip Q. J. Rogers, William P. Stevenson and Robert R. Stevenson. Michael C. Jobson, of Mill Hall; William, of Pittsburg; Peter E of this place; Mrs. Hulbert Bixbe of Ohio, and Miss Jennie Jobson, of this city, are the surviving brothers and sisters.

Funeral services were conducted from his late residence at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, by Rev. Wilford P. Shriner, D. D., pastor of Trinity M. E. church. Interment was made in Highland cemetery.

Prof. Jackson Honored.

Professor J. Price Jackson, dean of the school of engineering at the Pennsylvania State College, was recently accorded an honor reflecting credit not only upon him but also upon State College. He was chosen an honorary member of the State Electrical Association, which has a membership of over one thousand and represents all of the more important electric corporations in Pennsylvania.

CHARLES HEIMER DEAD

Well Known Citizen of Beech Creek Died at His Home Last Week.

Charles Heimer, Sr., a highly respected citizen of Beech Creek, died at his home on Maple avenue at 11 o'clock Wednesday evening, September 13, after an illness of one month from the effects of catarrh of the bladder. He was taken seriously ill very suddenly and despite the best of care and medical attention he gradually grew weaker. Had he lived until November 3 he would have rounded out 70 years, having been born in 1841.

He was born in Hesse Darmstadt, Germany, and with his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Heimer, emigrated to this country on February 15, 1855, and settled near this city.

Deceased was a man that bore the esteem of his friends and neighbors and followed farming nearly all his life in Beech Creek and Liberty townships, retiring several years ago. He was a member of the Disciple church, of Elkland lodge, I. O. O. F., in Tioga county and was also affiliated with Blanchard lodge No 427, where he was a regular attendant at all meetings. In 1869 he was married to Catherine McGhee, of Mill Hall.

Deceased is survived by two brothers, Philip, of Beech Creek township, and Jacob Heimer, of this city. One sister, Mrs. David Floruss, of Flemington, also survives.

Funeral services were conducted a his late residence at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon by Rev. W. H. Patterson. Interment in Fearon cemetery.—Lock Haven Express.

Unclaimed Letters.

The following letters remain unclaimed at the Bellfonte postoffice for the past week: T. W. Gibbons, Mrs. Elsie Gladfelter, Mrs. Minnie Green, George Elmer Hopper, A. L. McCoy. Persons calling for these letters will kindly explain that the same have been advertised in "The Republican.

Blanchard Citizen Dead.

Harry Bambrick, of Blanchard, died on Friday of last week in the Lock Haven hospital following an operation. He was admitted to the hospital on August 30, but his case did not respond to treatment and an operation was decided upon. His death resulted several days later.

Testing Cows.

As a result of the agricultural campaign which is being conducted by the Pennsylvania Railroad, there has been formed the Chester Valley Farms Co-operative Association. Its officers are Lardner Howell, Whitford Farm, Whitford, Pa., president; J. Howard Avil, Swedesford Farm, Glen Lock, Pa., secretary, and George Thomas, 3rd. South Hill Farm, Whitford, Pa., treasurer, while Clarence Sears Kates, of Glen Lock; Lewis Downing and Thomas Downing, of Downingtown, Charles Thomas, of Whitford, and Charles Walker, of Paoli, are the directors.

The first work undertaken by the Association is cow testing. A trained man has been secured from Pennsylvania State College, and he has already started on his new duties. Four hundred and fifty cows are in the herds which belong to members of the Association. The duty of the expert is to visit each herd once a month, weigh the night and morning milk of each cow, test each cow's milk for butterfat and solids, weigh feed and ascertain its cost. This tabulated record of production and cost will be given to the owner before the tester leaves the farm. It is estimated that the cost of this to the members of the Chester Valley Farms Co-operative Association will amount to but a few pennies a cow per month.

The work of the Association was organized under the personal supervision of a representative of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Burglars at Clearfield.

Burglars who have been operating about Irvona and nearby localities have extended their work to Clearfield, where the big store of Louis Shapiro, was entered on Tuesday morning of last week and robbed of clothing, watches, diamonds and jewelry to the amount of nearly $800, and $13.50 in cash. Conditions about the building seem to indicate that it was the work of professionals, as there are no marks about the front door or windows in the rear showing how they gained access to the store room. After the robbery they made their escape and the police have no clew by which to follow them up.

Foley's Kidney Remedy (Liquid.)

What Cures Eczema?

We have had so many inquiries lately regarding Eczema and other skin diseases, that we are glad to make our answer public. After careful investigation we have found that a simple wash of Oil of Wintergreen, as compounded D. D. D., can be relied upon. We would not make this statement to our patrons, friends and neighbors unless we were sure of it—and although there are many so-called Eczema remedies sold, we ourselves unhestatingly recommend D. D. D. Prescription.

Because—We know that it gives instant relief to that torturing itch.

Because—D. D. D. starts the cure at the foundation of the trouble.

Because—It cleanses, soothes and heals the skin.

Because—It enables Nature to repair the ravages of disease.

Because—The records of ten years of complete cures of thousands of the most serious cases show that D. D. D. is today recognized as the absolutely reliable Eczema Cure.

Handling a Haddock.

"There is no better place than a fish market to pick up queer superstitions," said a restaurant proprietor. "The other day I held up a fine specimen of haddock. The dealer, who was an Italian, nearly choked on the bunch of Neapolitan expletives that rushed into his throat.

"'Nevaire, no, nevaire take up haddock so,' he said.

"'How?' I asked.

"'By the head, so your fingers touch those dark spots on each side of the head,' he said. 'The curse fall on you if you do.'

"'Whose curse?' said I.

"'St. Petaire's,' said he. 'St. Petaire gave the haddock those dark spots. They are his finger prints. He catch haddock just so in the sea of Galilee, and every haddock born since then has shown those same marks. Let go.'

"And I did let go. Of course I did not believe it, but when I found that half the fish dealers in that market did believe I deemed it prudent to handle haddock by the body or tail."—New York Sun.

A Maniac's Poem.

Probably the mass of prison poetry which has been written on stools and bedposts and scratched on prison walls far exceeds that which has found expression on paper, and many a "mute, inglorious Milton" has begun and finished his poetical career with these "lost to sight" productions. There is in existence a short poem, said to have been scratched by a maniac on the wall of his cell, which runs thus:

Could I with ink the ocean fill,
Were all the world of parchment made,
Were every reed on earth a quill
And every man a scribe by trade,
To write the love of God alone
Would drain that ocean dry;
Nor could the scroll contain the whole,
Though stretched from sky to sky.

The authenticity of this being the work of a maniac has often been questioned because of the beauty of its expression and its sound reason, but the story stands.—London Saturday Review.

Bird Stories.

A German scientific journal published in 1897 a story to the effect that a golden eagle shot in that year at Eszeg, Slavonia, was found to have a ring about its neck engraved on which were the arms of a Slavonian family and the date 1646.

In 1793 the Gentleman's Magazine told about a hawk, captured when flying in the vicinity of the Cape of Good Hope and taken by an Indian ship to England, which wore a gold collar inscribed:

"This goodlie hawk doth belong to his Most Excellent Majesty James, King of England, A. D. 1610."

If this bird really escaped from England in the reign of James, 183 years elapsed between its escape and its recapture, and it had flown a distance of 6,500 miles away from its former owner.

A Boy Once Himself.

The principal of a village school in Kansas one afternoon detected a boy cutting the letters of his name in the desk in front of him. As the novels would put it the principal rushed to the spot, angrily put forth his hand intending to grasp the boy by the collar, when lo, and also behold, close by the newly formed letters were the initials of the principal's own name written by himself when he was a pupil in the same school. His grasp upon the boy's collar loosened itself, and he returned to his desk a sadder and a wiser teacher. That principal is today judge of an important court in one of the greatest cities of the world. We often wonder whether or not in the administration of justice the judge ever thinks of the incident in the village school.—Western School Journal.

Parental Tactics.

A worried parent is sometimes obliged to do something like this:

"Pa, what is a transcendentalist?"

"Have you chained up the dog as I told you?"

"Not yet, pa."

"Well, do that, and when you come back I will tell you what a transcendentalist is."

While Bobby was gone his astute parent dug the needed information out of a dictionary.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Beethoven's Fits of Rage.

Beethoven's behavior was often atrocious. In giving lessons to young ladies he would sometimes tear the music to pieces and scatter it about the floor or even smash the furniture. Once when playing in company there was some interruption. "I play no longer for such hogs!" he cried and left the piano. He once called Prince Lobkowitz an ass because a bassoon player happened to be absent.—Dole's "Famous Composers."

Queer Human Nature.

"Man's a funny proposition!"

"What now?"

"When he reads a medical book he fancies he has every disease described, but let him read the work of a moralist and all the faults pointed out he sees not in himself, but in his neighbor."—Boston Transcript.

Stunted Maples.

Stunted maple trees, grown in mountainous regions of eastern Austria, where the winters are long and severe and the snowfalls considerable, yield excellent wood for the manufacture of violins.

Boiled Down.

When Samuel G. Blythe, the writer, was editing a newspaper in New York state a green reporter one night turned in a long and thrilling story regarding the rough treatment handed out to John Smith, a visitor to the town. The story related that Mr. Smith, wearing a high silk hat, had ventured down to the docks after nightfall and a silk hat being unusual and provocative of antagonisms in that section Mr. Smith had emerged from among the dock hands without the hat. Nevertheless he carried out of the melee so many wounds, cuts and bruises that he had to be sent to the hospital. The article in its original form was too long and not in keeping with the style of the paper. Accordingly Blythe started to rewrite it. This is the form in which it appeared in the paper the next morning: "John Smith, wearing a high silk hat, went down to the docks last night—Emergency hospital."—Popular Magazine.

Wagner's Last Words.

There have been so many and conflicting stories published as to the last hours of Richard Wagner that the chapter devoted to this point in Glasenapp's biography of the composer will be read with interest. The master was not really sick at the time, but tired out from the work and worry over the "Parsifal" rehearsals. On the morning of Feb. 13 he said to his valet, "I must be careful today." After breakfast he went to his study as usual and worked on an essay on "The Feminine In the Human." He asked to be excused at the noon meal, and the family and an intimate friend were enjoying it when a woman servant rushed in and said that the great man was ill. He was placed on a cot in his study, and while removing some of his clothes a watch which his wife had given to him fell to the floor. He gasped, "My watch!" And these were the last words he uttered.

A Race of Tenors.

Generally speaking, races living at high altitudes have weaker and more highly pitched voices than those living in regions where the supply of oxygen is more plentiful. Thus, in South America, among the Indians living on the plateaus between the ranges of the Andes, at an elevation of from 10,000 to 14,000 feet, the men have voices like women and the women like children, their singing being a shrill monotone. The Australian native has a weak voice, but a knack of sending it a long distance, and the lowest tribes of African bushmen would come into the same category; but, it is said, of all human beings the pygmies of Central Africa have, in point of volume and compass, the weakest of human voices. —Harper's Weekly.

Proposed amendments to the Constitution submitted to the citizens of this Commonwealth for their approval or rejection, by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and published by order of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, in pursuance of Article XVIII of the Constitution.

Number One.

A JOINT RESOLUTION

Proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, so as to consolidate the courts of common pleas of Allegheny County.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following amendment to the Constitution of Pennsylvania be, and the same is hereby, proposed, in accordance with the eighteenth article thereof:—

That section six of article five be amended, by striking out the said section, and inserting in place thereof the following:

Section 6. In the county of Philadelphia all the jurisdiction and powers now vested in the district courts and courts of common pleas, subject to such changes as may be made by this Constitution or by law, shall be in Philadelphia vested in five distinct and separate courts of equal and co-ordinate jurisdiction, composed of three judges each. The said courts in Philadelphia shall be designated respectively as the court of common pleas number one, number two, number three, number four, and number five, but the number of said courts may be by law increased from time to time, and shall be in like manner designated by successive numbers. The number of judges in any of said courts, or in any county where the establishment of an additional court may be authorized by law, may be increased, from time to time, and whenever such increase shall amount in the whole to three, such three judges shall compose a distinct and separate court as aforesaid, which shall be numbered as aforesaid. In Philadelphia all suits shall be instituted in the said courts of common pleas without designating the number of the said court, and the several courts shall distribute and apportion the business among them in such manner as shall be provided by rules of court, and each court, to which any suit shall be thus assigned, shall have exclusive jurisdiction thereof, subject to change of venue, as shall be provided by law.

In the county of Allegheny all the jurisdiction and powers now vested in the several numbered courts of common pleas shall be vested in one court of common pleas, composed of all the judges in commission in said courts. Such jurisdiction and powers shall extend to all proceedings at law and in equity which shall have been instituted in the several numbered courts, and shall be subject to such changes as may be made by law, and subject to change of venue as provided by law. The president judge of said court shall be selected as provided by law. The number of judges in said court may be by law increased from time to time. This amendment shall take effect on the first day of January succeeding its adoption.

Number Two.

A JOINT RESOLUTION

Proposing an amendment to section eight, article nine, of the Constitution of Pennsylvania.

Section 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following is proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in accordance with the provisions of the eighteenth article thereof:—

Amendment to Article Nine, Section Eight.

Section 2. Amend section eight, article nine, of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, which reads as follows:—

"Section 8. The debt of any county, city, borough, township, school district, or other municipality or incorporated district, except as herein provided, shall never exceed seven per centum upon the assessed value of the taxable property therein, nor shall any such municipality or district incur any new debt, or increase its indebtedness to an amount exceeding two per centum upon such assessed valuation of property, without the assent of the electors thereof at a public election in such manner as shall be provided by law; but any city, the debt of which now exceeds seven per centum of such assessed valuation, may be authorized by law to increase the same three per centum, in the aggregate, at any one time, upon such valuation," so as to read as follows:—

Section 8. The debt of any county, city, borough, township, school district, or other municipality or incorporated district, except as herein provided, shall never exceed seven per centum upon the assessed value of the taxable property therein, nor shall any such municipality or district incur any new debt, or increase its indebtedness to an amount exceeding two per centum upon such assessed valuation of property, without the assent of the electors thereof at a public election in such manner as shall be provided by law; but any city, the debt of which now exceeds seven per centum of such assessed valuation, may be authorized by law to increase the same three per centum, in the aggregate, at any one time, upon such valuation, except that any debt or debts hereinafter incurred by the city and county of Philadelphia for the construction and development of subways for transit purposes, or for the construction of wharves and docks, or the reclamation of land to be used in the construction of a system of wharves and docks, as public improvements, owned or to be owned by said city and county of Philadelphia, and which shall yield to the city and county of Philadelphia current net revenue in excess of the interest on said debt or debts and of the annual installments necessary for the cancellation of said debt or debts, may be excluded in ascertaining the power of the city and county of Philadelphia to become otherwise indebted: Provided, That a sinking fund for their cancellation shall be established and maintained.

ATTEND THE PRIMARIES

On Saturday of next week—just ten days off—the primaries will be held in Centre County. Regardless of how largely the primaries may be attended, even though ever so few persons take the trouble to attend, some of those nominated on that day will be elected in November. The moral is obvious. If good men are to be elected in November good men must be nominated at the primaries.

It is lamentably true that too many of our citizens do not take the time and go to the trouble to attend the primaries. They good-naturedly take the position that their votes are not needed, that there will be enough others to attend and that they can then make their selection of candidates at the November election. For the most part, those who do not go to the trouble of attending the primaries are not lacking in patriotism or party loyalty. They do not attend because they have gotten out of the habit of attending and have never stopped to realize that had they attended better men in many instances could have been nominated and defeats turned into victories at the regular elections.

For the citizen who is busy, especially the farmer who has to travel several miles to the polling place, it is undeniably true that attending the primaries means more or less inconvenience and the apparent loss of valuable time. Now that we have but one primary and one election each year, instead of two of each a year, as was the case in the recent past, every Republican should make a special effort to participate in both the primary and the general election. His presence will aid in the selection of the best men for the nominations. His absence may make possible the selection of the very ones who are a burden rather than a help to the ticket, a reflection rather than a credit upon that particular community.

Nothing of real value is secured without some self-sacrifice upon the part of somebody. Citizens who want good officials nominated and elected must be willing to do their part toward nominating and electing them. It is all well enough after the primaries for one to regret that a better and stronger candidate was not nominated for some particular office, but this is a mighty poor argument for any citizen who failed to go to the primaries.

Is it a loss of time for our busiest citizens to attend the primaries? The importance of electing the very best men possible to our several county and local offices is not to be overestimated. Our busiest citizens are as a rule the ones who suffer the most where incompetent public officials are elected. The busy men are the ones who should take the most interest in seeing to it that good men are elected, and as we have already said, good men cannot be elected if good men are not nominated.

Our hope is that every Republican in Centre County will take sufficient interest in the matter to attend the primaries on Saturday, September 30, help nominate good men and then complete the work by exerting himself to elect them. The primaries will be held at the regular polling places and will be open from 2 o'clock in the afternoon until 8 o'clock in the evening. If every Republican in the county will take the time to decide which of the candidates will make the best officials, and then go to the trouble of voting for them at the primaries and also the regular election, the entire Republican ticket will be victorious in November beyond any question of doubt. It's up to Republicans to do it.

Married at Beech Creek.

A quiet but very pretty wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mrs. Elizabeth DeHaas, at Beech Creek, on Monday afternoon, last, the contracting parties being Miss Myra Gunsallus and Grant Bowes, both of Liberty township. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Frank Gunsallus. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Bowes. The young couple are well and favorably known and their numerous friends wish them much happiness in their married life.

NOW FOLLOWING THE DOG.

Try as hard as it knows how, the "Democratic Watchman" can't get away with the task of pretending that it enjoys being bossed by the "Centre Democrat." Fear of being kicked clear out of the Democratic party has forced the "Democratic Watchman" into its shell of late and its silence anent the Keystone Democrats, of which the "Centre Democrat" is the king bee, is painfully ludicrous. Because it is afraid to adopt any other course, the "Democratic Watchman" is pretending that it cordially approves turning the Democratic party over to the ownership and control of the "Centre Democrat." But does it relish the spectacle, after all? Less than three months ago the "Democratic Watchman" branded the editor of the "Centre Democrat" with being guilty of these assets, or liabilities, take your choice:

"Egotism,"
"Jealousy,"
"Pure Assininity,"
"Political Pigmy,"
"Yellow Dog."

And all this but a few weeks ago, on July 13, to be exact. The day it publicly branded the editor of the "Centre Democrat" a "yellow dog" there were some who supposed that the "Democratic Watchman" had at last scraped up the courage of its convictions. Just now it would seem to be a case of the "Democratic Watchman" following the "yellow dog."

MAY NOT LIKE IT, BUT——

In the event of a Democratic victory in Centre County in November every blessed Democrat will have to step up and take his orders from the "Centre Democrat," which is to become the official Democratic organ. We may be mistaken of course, but our recollection is that just along about this time last year the "Centre Democrat" deserted the Democratic party and was hammering the life out of regularly nominated Democratic candidates. To old-line Democrats, who believe that the true friend of their party is the friend who stands by it in the hour of need, complete and abject surrender to the "Centre Democrat" will be a bitter dose, but they will have to swallow it just the same. Behold Boss Kurtzcrack the whip!

WOMEN ARE HUSTLING

Lively Campaigning for Votes for Mrs. Brouse and Mrs. Glimour.

The Woman's Club, of Bellefonte, this week issued a statement urging voters to support the candidacy of Mrs. R. S. Brouse and Mrs. Charles E. Gilmour for nomination on both Republican and Democratic tickets for the two two-years terms as school directors. The statement is entitled "More Reasons for Voting for Women on the School Board," and is as follows:

1. Women are the mothers and natural guardians of children.

2. The selection of women would tend to remove school affairs from the influence of politics.

3. Women directors have proved themselves helpful to the public school teachers.

4. A large majority of the teachers in the public schools are women, and women, as directors, would become more intimately acquainted with them.

5. School directors are not chosen merely to levy taxes, locate schools or build school houses; but they must select those who are to mould the morals and educate the rising generation. For this purpose women are as well fitted as men.

6. Women are able to devote more time than men to the duties of the office.

7. As some of the members of the Board should be good business men, these generally have little time to devote to the educational, moral and sanitary duties. Women, therefore, should be selected who have time to meet these requirements.

8. When women undertake financial affairs, they prove themselves as competent as men, and as a rule are more economical.

9. In the re-election of the Board it is advisable to retain some of the members, and it will be equally advantageous to have, at least, two new ones. For the above reasons these should be women.

10. In canvassing the town it has been strikingly shown that the mothers of the public school children endorse the election of women school directors. As mothers should have a voice in the direction of the education of their children, the fathers should recognize this claim, and cast their votes accordingly.

"What would life be without her? As babies, she bears us. As boys, she bosses us. As men, she owns us. At death, she buries us, and she alone puts flowers on men's graves. Man was made to do her bidding and if he's smart he'll do it quick."

MISS GIBBIE GAULT.

On September 30th, nominate Mrs. Roger S. Brouse and Mrs. Charles E. Gilmour for school directors for the two two-years terms.

AUTO CONTEST

Those secured on subscriptions are votes in proportion to the length of the subscription, as shown in the vote schedule.

The Judges will be selected by the contestants and The Republican.

Candidates must reside in one of the prescribed localities.

VOTES ISSUED ON SUBSCRIPTION.

Paid in advance subscriptions should be sent DIRECT to the Republican office, and, on receipt of remittance special ballots will be issued. See vote schedule and subscription rates.

Any protest as to eligibility of any candidate will not be considered if votes have been cast for said candidate for a period of twenty (20) days or longer.

No employe or member of employes' family of The Republican can participate in this contest.

Any question that may arise will be determined by The Republican and its decision will be final and absolute.

HOW VOTES ARE SECURED.

With every subscription to The Republican (when asked for) is given a coupon good for a certain number of votes, according to the length of the subscription. These coupons must be voted before date of expiration which is printed on each coupon.

Votes cannot be bought; they must be clipped from the paper or secured on subscriptions.

Votes secured by one contestant cannot be transferred to another.

ANSWER TO QUESTION.

Anyone, anywhere, can vote for any candidate. If you have a friend you wish to vote for, who has not yet been nominated, send in your votes and fill out the nomination blank printed in The Republican. This nomination blank counts 1,000 votes to start with.

HOW TO GET VOTES.

If you belong to an organization let your fellow members know you are in the race: It pays to advertise.

Don't forget that the children can do the most effective work in collecting coupons. Every little bit helps.

Should your father, brother, sister or friends belong to any organization get them to work for you.

Do not let a day pass without casting a ballot. Success is the reward of persistency.

Cast your coupons in as large numbers as possible—this will save you time and trouble.

Enlist the interest of your friends and friends' friend.

CALL AND GET ACQUAINTED.

If you have friends in other cities write them a letter to show them the value of the prize you are working for. We have some printed letters you may use.

Call and get a supply. If you learn of any person who is not a reader of The Republican, secure their subscriptions whether you know them or not.

There will be special announcements from time to time. Read The Republican every week and watch for these announcements.

Ask your political friends to furnish ideas. They know how to organize, and organization means success.

Special receipt books are furnished by the contest department of The Republican.

Call on the contest manager and get acquainted.

BE CHEERFUL.

Keep a cheerful and confident spirit. If it is apparent that you expect to win, you will get many interested who would not like to see you disappointed. They wish to be of use to someone who will make the most of whatever aid is given to them. Persuade them that you are that person, and then make up your mind not to disappoint them or yourself. Votes are given on old and new subscriptions paid in advance, also for those paying arrearages. Work and win.

AWARDING THE PRIZES.

The grand prize will be the automobile and it will be awarded to the candidate receiving the largest number of votes in the three districts. Besides the capital prize, there will be six district prizes. There will be three separate districts and after it has been decided who wins the first prize the other prizes will be awarded to the candidates receiving the next highest number of votes in their respective district.

Irvin Gettig Injured.

While shingling the roof of a hay barn at the L. H. Gettig slaughter house, along Spring Creek, Irvin Gettig and E. C. Harter yesterday fell a distance of about twenty feet. Mr. Gettig sustained a badly sprained back and a sprained ankle. Mr. Harter escaped with but a few bruises. It was at first reported that Mr. Gettig's injuries were such that he might not recover. The attending physicians said last night that he no doubt would be about in a few days.

Sabbath School Appeal.

At the meeting of the Executive Committee, of the Centre County Sabbath School Association, held in Bellefonte, Tuesday, Sept. 19, for the purpose of gathering statistics to place the county in the "Front Line" list, it was found that it lacked twenty Cradle Rolls and fifteen Home Departments. The county has qualified in the number of Teachers' Training Classes, but needs a record of the additional Cradle Rolls and Home Departments. The establishment of these departments is urged upon superintendents. A report of these together with those already established and not yet reported is greatly desired before the State Convention at New Castle, October, 11, 12 and 13. Centre County deserves to be a "Front Line" county in Sabbath School work and will be so if all these departments are reported. Please send such reports to Mrs. L. W. Nuttall, Philipsburg, Pa.

Steam Without Radiators

Sorrowful and uninviting was the sight which greeted Edward H. Reninger, secretary and treasurer of the Lehigh Valley Trust and Deposit company, and family on the return Monday from their summer residence to their town house at Allentown. The latter during the absence of the family, was remodeled, and nothing remained unfinished but placing the radiators.

During the damp spell last week city steam was turned on, and without the knowledge or suspicion of anybody the banker's home and all its costly new improvements were thoroughly saturated. The loss is several thousand dollars.

Mrs. W. H. Long, wife of our popular miller, was called to visit her aged mother, Mrs. Reeder, at Turbotville.

Mrs. Leathers, mother of our genial Roy, has been ill but Dr. Kurtz, her attending physician, will soon have her around again.

Mrs. S. F. Reber does not run a dairy but sells milk to the citizens of South Walnut Street, which is a great convenience to them.

Messrs David and Philip Holter, brothers, have been busy repairing roofs and painting the tin spouting on our dwelling houses.

Mrs. Cora Yearick, of Clintondale, a very pleasant lady, took advantage of the lovely day and drove to Howard, while here calling on Mrs. Howard Robb.

The ladies of the Evangelical church extend a general invitation to a baked bean supper at the home of Squire and Mrs. J. L. Holter on Saturday evening next.

John A. Hagen's cider mill is running to its full capacity, a constant procession of wagons loaded with apples and from all parts of March Creek lining up to his place.

Oscar M. Lucas, who holds down a good position in Altoona, is off on a two-week's vacation and with his mother and sister Nancy are on a trip to Maryland and Virginia.

Harry Butler has fully determined to start farming next spring. His wife presented him with a nice little plough boy last Monday morning. Mother and child are doing nicely.

Sunday evening Rev. R. S. Taylor preached a fine sermon to an attentive and appreciative audience. His theme was "Alms-giving," and his text taken from Luke 11: 41.

John Lyons, one of our citizens, has been cutting out a tract of timber near Beech Creek and at present is laid up with rheumatism. John is a hard worker and his numerous friends hope for his speedy recovery.

Mrs. Howard Robb, who has been keeping house for her father for the past three years, has secured a position as superintendent of supplies in the Lock Haven State Normal School. She formally assumed charge on Monday of last week.

Last Friday morning, about 3 o'clock, there was a bright flash of lightning and a terrific report followed. Upon investigation it developed that the lightning struck the ground near the residence of Ray Allison. It was the only flash of the entire night.

When Joseph H. Schenck went to his dinner on Monday he found an usually large family about his table. An explanation revealed the fact that it was Mr. Schenck's 64th birthday anniversary and his good wife and daughters had asked in a few of his friends to help celebrate the event in the participation of one of her good dinners. It was a real pleasure for the guests as well as to Mr. Schenck.

Rev. W. H. Patterson, minister of the Christian church, preached to the children of this congregation last Sunday evening. His discourse was a warning to beware of the many "little foxes" which lead children astray. Eighteen children were not found napping in the line of music, as their chorister had them well drilled on selections especially suited for children and which they sang alone instead of the church choir. They certainly acquitted themselves with credit.

On Monday W. E. Confer, carrier on rural route No. 1, was 54 years old and his many friends found occasion to accord him an agreeable surprise and gathered at his home without his consent. The evening proved a very enjoyable one to all and delightful refreshments were provided for the guests. Mr. Confer was also the recipient of a number of presents as mementos of the day and were typical of the esteem in which he is held by his friends. The guests departed at a late hour wishing "Billy" many happy returns of his birthday.

"Dr. Thomas' Eclectic Oil is the best remedy for that often fatal disease—croup. Has been used with success in our family for eight years."—Mrs. L Whiteacre, Buffalo, N. Y.

Unionville.

Samuel Holt re-roofed his store building this week.

Ralph Moran departed on Monday for Penyan, N. Y., where he has secured a position as a farm hand.

Miss Hannah Holt, who became suddenly ill while at church on Sunday evening, is slowly improving.

Hassel Stere expects to return to Orange, N. J., on Saturday. Hassel is getting along all right. Good luck to you.

F. A Holderman and wife, J. B. Stere and wife and J. H. Fisher and wife attended the "Missouri Girl," in Bellefonte last Thursday night.

Roy Miles, who is ill from typhoid fever at the Bellefonte hospital, is reported to be just about the same, no change in his condition in the last week.

Cavode Pringle, of Johnstown, spent a few days last week at the home of J. C. Stere. On Monday he entered State College, where he will take up mechanical engineering.

Harry Musser, assistant ticket agent for the P. R. R., is all smiles. Is it any wonder? A nice little girl baby came to his home on Saturday morning. Mother and babe are getting along nicely.

The remains of William Iddings, formerly of this place bnt later of Huntingdon, were laid to rest in the upper cemetery on Sunday morning, at 10 o'clock. Mr. Iddings lived in this community all his life until he removed to the home of his son, Ellis Iddings, at Huntingdon. He was a highly respected and honored citizen. Had he lived until the 20th of October he would have been 90 years old. The funeral services were conducted from the Friends church.

A telegram received on Wednesday of last week announced that Charles Holtzworth and John Rowan were seriously ill from typhoid fever in Cumberland, Maryland. Mr. Holtzworth and son, Blair, and Mr. Rowan and son, Charles, departed at once for Cumberland. Mr. Rowan found his son, John, in the Cumberland hospital and his condition such that he could not be removed to his home at this place. The fever had not developed so far with Charles Holtzworth and he started for home with his father and brother, arriving here last Thursday on the noon train. Charles did not seem to be any the worse after his trip and now is getting along as well as could be expected. Mr. Rowan remained in Cumberland until Saturday, when he returned home. Latest reports are that John is getting along splendidly. We all hope for the speedy recovery of both of our young men.

Mt. Eagle.

Irvin Robinson recently made a shipment of some fine hay to Snow Shoe.

Mr. and Mrs. John Leathers were Bellefonte shoppers on Saturday evening.

Miss Carry Shank, who has been in Lock Haven returned home on Saturday.

Simon Zimmerman, wife and family, of Ligonier, last week visited at the home of Mrs. Seymour Confer.

Miss Marcella Royer has returned to Bellefonte, where she will be employed during the winter.

The schools opened here on Monday with about 40 pupils in attendance. We wish success to the teachers and pupils during the coming year.

Albert Lucas and brother, of Moshannon, passed through here on Sunday, enroute to Howard. The former will be recalled as one of our old and popular school teachers.

Pine Grove Mills.

Miss Maude Decker has returned to Bellefonte for the winter.

Miss Margaret Wright, of Bellefonte, visited her mother, Mrs. Mary Wright, over Sunday.

A. L. Bowersox and wife were entertained at the home of Miss Gertrude Keichline on Sunday.

Aaron Kepler and Ralph Musser attended Miss Crissman's dance in Bellefonte on Friday evening of last week.

W. E. Stover made a trip to Bellefonte on Saturday to meet his uncle, Solomon Stover, of Minnesota, who is making his first visit in 35 years.

Quite a few of our people attended the grangers picnic last week.

Rev. Mr. Stover preached a very able serman and held the regular fall communion service in the Reformed church on Sunday.

Who Could They Be?

The Tyrone Herald on Monday, last, published the following:

Recently a family moved to Tyrone from Bellefonte and in the last two or three months they have lived in a half dozen houses in the town and vicinity. The man of the house was never known to work and how he made a livelihood for his family has always been a question in the minds of the people with whom he associated. The question was solved a week or so ago when the police got next to their actions, which came near browing the whole shebang into the city prison on Saturday evening. The authorities are almost certain that the man and woman have been carrying on a house of ill fame as a number of men were seen going in and out of their home, where they lived on Pennsylvania avenue. Last week the family moved to a house on Washington avenue and the same business was carried on there. Chief of Police Wands, Patrolmen Miller and Patterson and several other officials raided the house on Saturday night only to find the place empty of visitors. Some one evidently was on the lookout and put the occupants next, as five men were seen in the place not a half hour before the raid. Burgess Grazier and Chief of Police Wands are determined to wipe out these places in Tyrone and intend too keep the work up until the town is rid of these disreputable characters.

Henry McMonigle Dead.

At the home of his daughter, Mrs. R. W. Downing, near Hollidaysburg, Henry McMonigle, died on September 16, of diseases incident to old age. Mr. McMonigle was born in Half Moon valley, Centre county, September 2, 1823, hence was aged at death 88 years and 14 days. The early part of his life was spent in Pennsylvania. When about 35 years of age he went to Kansas and remained there until March 1910, when he came back to his native state and took up his residence at the home of his daughter. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church at Hollidaysburg and was highly esteemed by all who shared his acquaintance. He was also a member of Post No. 251, G. A. R., of Harper, Kansas, having been a Civil war veteran. His service was for one year, in Company I, Two Hundredth regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers.

Surviving him are two daughters, Mrs. John V. Barker, of Harper, Kansas, and Mrs. Downing, at whose home he died; also twelve grandchildren, thirteen great-grandchildren, one sister and two brothers: Mrs. David Frontz, of Bellwood; James and John, of Port Matilda. The funeral service was held at the home of Mrs. Downing on Monday afternoon, after which the body was shipped to Kansas for interment.—Altoona Tribune.

Warrants in Lynching Case.

Upon recommendation of the Chester County grand jury, Judge William Butler, of Chester, yesterday issued bench warrants for the arrest of Chief of Police Umstead and Policeman Stanley Howe, charged with manslaughter, and Richard E. Tucker and Walter Markwood, charged with murder. All four are residents of Coatsville. The bench warrants were issued as a result of the grand jury's investigation of the recent lynching of Zach. Walker, the negro, who was taken from the Coatesville hospital and burned by a mob. Governor Tener recently insisted that the investigation include the ring-leaders in the case. The grand jury, after hearing scores of witnesses, recommended the arrest of the four men named. Several additional arrests may be made.

DEPLORES CARRYING ARMS

Phila. Police Supt. Asserts Concealed Weapons Cause Crime.

The crusade now going on in New York against the possession and use of deadly weapons is attracting considerable attention in all parts of the country, and the succession of shootings during the past few weeks in Philadelphia is arousing comment, says the Public Ledger of that city. It was on this subject that Superintendent of Police Taylor spoke before the convention of the International Association of Police Chiefs last June, in Rochester, when he recommended drastic measures to prevent what he called "the enormous loss of life due to the unlawful carrying of revolvers." Superintendent Taylor dwelt on the subject again recently in an interview.

The chief feature of the New York laws carries it further than most legislation on the subject. The statute makes it a crime to have a ravolver in one's possession without a police license, and applies, of course, to other deadly weapons.

Proper regulation of the use of revolvers, in Superintendent Taylor's opinion, will greatly reduce the number of murders, as there will then be more likelihood, as he puts it, of combatants resorting to "the more American method of settling disputes."

"This is a great, serious problem," Superintendent Taylor said. "We are going to have murder as long as men are able to carry revolvers secretly."

"Conditions here are as bad as anywhere," he continued, "and will be bad as long as the sale of firearms goes on unrestricted. There has been an abnormal number of murders recently, and most of them have been committed with revolvers. I am in favor of a law which will require persons selling firearms to register and keep a record of the description of the person buying and of the weapon. Then if a crime was committed and the revolver found, there would be a strong link in the evidence.

"It is human nature for a man with a revolver in his pocket to feel too much assurance. The foreign-born residents of this county particularly are fond of carrying revolvers, and with this feeling and their natural tendency to give way to high temper comes the danger.

"In thirteen cities of this country only two of which are of the first class, statistics show that in 1909 there were 2548 arrests for carrying concealed deadly weapons. In 1910 there were 3904. In 1909 there were 2987 murders, manslaughters and similar crimes committed with revolvers, and in 1910 there were 3172. This shows the need of such a law as I have suggested, and it should be made uniform throughout the country. I tried to have a law passed in Pennsylvania, but it was feared that it would infringe on the right of citizens to bear arms, given by the State and national Constitution. This is not the case.

"Citizens may bear arms lawfully, but we should know who bear arms all the time. The bill also applied to the sale of explosives, and this aroused the opposition of the mining interests, who declared that they would be put to the trouble of obeying the law every time they bought explosives. The day the bill was defeated a little girl was shot in Philadelphia. Dynamiting of bridges and buildings is frequent simply because the police cannot control the sale of explosives.

"The habit of carrying firearms is a bad one. The fact that it is so general endangers the life of all in the community; it endangers the lives of policemen and of little children. The Pennsylvania law of 1864 prohibits the carrying of concealed deadly weapons, making it a misdemeanor; but the fact that a man is carrying a weapon is usually not learned until after the damage is done."

Alfalfa, $23 Per Ton.

AFTER THE REVOLUTION

A Story Showing How Magnanimity Comes to Follow Victory

By EDWIN PENNINGTON

Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

After every struggle resulting in a change of government there are scores to be paid off by those who have revolted. As revolutionists, instead of being favored by the law they have been hampered by it. Having established themselves in power, the other edge of the sword is brought into play and cuts in the opposite direction. Instead of being used to imprison or execute revolutionists it is used to execute the advocates of the government overthrown.

When the recent revolution in Mexico became the de facto government the revolutionists stood ready to use the law to punish those who had used it to punish them. During that period when President Diaz held his own in the city of Mexico a young lawyer, Alfonzo Fernandez, a sympathizer with the insurgents, left the city to join the forces of Madero. During the fighting he was captured by the government troops, and, being a man of influence, every effort was made to induce him to return to the support of President Diaz. He was turned over to one Jose Sierra, a man deeply interested in putting down the rebellion, with orders to persuade, force or buy him to the government support.

Sierra took the captive to his hacienda, put him on his parole not to leave it and treated him like a guest instead of a prisoner. The jailer host was an adept at winning over an enemy and used every art of persuasion that suggested itself to him.

Concia, Sierra's daughter, a girl of twenty, possessed one of those oval faces of a dusky shade, large liquid eyes and especially the long lashes of the Spaniard. Her father noticed soon after Fernandez's arrival that he was attracted by his daughter and she was attracted by Fernandez. It occurred to Sierra that Fernandez's conversion might be accomplished more readily by means of the girl than by his own arguments or threats. He gave the young people every opportunity to be together and when he saw that the pear was ripe undertook to pluck it.

He offered Fernandez a prominent position under the government, which, of course, would be tantamount to securing his adherence. Fernandez declined the offer. Then Sierra informed his prisoner that he would be tried for treason, which meant that he would be found guilty and executed. In love with the daughter of the man who had made the threat, the temptation to yield and desert the cause in which he had embarked was well nigh resistless.

Fernandez seemed to have everything to gain by giving his adherence to the established government. President Diaz then appeared to be firmly fixed in the presidency, and it would be difficult to unseat him. By yielding Fernandez would acquire a position of prominence that might be permanent. That position he might make more enduring and more prominent by throwing his influence on the side of the man who had done much for Mexico. These arguments were reenforced by the fact that on one side stood death, on the other love. But honor forbade.

Fernandez now considered the parole he had given void and began to take measures to escape if possible. Concia procured for him a woman's dress and drove him in her volante past guards who had orders to be watchful and on no account permit his escape. Had it not been that she accompanied him he would not have succeeded in deceiving them. As it was, he made good his escape and returned to Mexico City.

Not even Sierra knew how Fernandez got beyond his clutches. Concia kept her secret, and directly after the escape changes occurred that rendered the episode a thing of the past and soon to be forgotten.

After Diaz's departure and the appointment of a provisional president of the republic the work of retaliation commenced. Jose Sierra, who had been captured by the revolutionists, was brought to the capital. To accuse a man of treason against a government that was not established when the act was committed would not come with good grace from the government that had been in rebellion. Those whom Sierra had made to suffer brought him to trial for having murdered a man whom he had shot during the struggle.

And so it was that the law which had before enabled Sierra to punish now afforded the same machinery for punishing him. As to his having ordered shot the man he was accused of murdering, there was no denying the fact. That he had done the deed legally did not concern the jurymen who were on the other side. The trial, therefore, was merely a judicial revenge, and a verdict of guilty was rendered accordingly.

The jury, the lawyers, the spectators, saw nothing but the bare facts of the trial that have been here outlined. To these persons in the courtroom there was far more than this. They were the judge before whom the prisoner was tried, the prisoner himself and his daughter, who sat beside him. When the time came for the sentence to be passed Sierra stood up to receive it, but was so weak that his daughter supported him.

"Jose Sierra," said the judge, "do you remember a man who once stopped at your hacienda and whom you endeavored to seduce from his allegiance to that government which now exists, but was then struggling for its existence?"

"I do."

"And do you remember having given him a choice between accepting an appointment under the Diaz government and a trial for treason, which meant death?"

"I do."

"But the man escaped. You remember that, too, don't you?"

"I do."

"You never knew how he managed to pass the guards you threw around your hacienda on every available route?"

"I did not."

"It would not have then been best for you to know this, nor is it now, but the assistance your prisoner received at that time is of great importance to you now. Had it not been for that assistance another victim would have been added to the one for shooting whom you have just been adjudged guilty."

All this was a puzzle to those present except the prisoner and his daughter. The judge spoke with evident emotion. The prisoner seemed deeply moved. His daughter as the address proceeded wound her arms tighter about her father. There was an impressiveness to the scene that held the audience spellbound. When the judge began to speak every one thought that he was about to give another instance than the one before the court why the prisoner should suffer death. When he entered upon the last matter he mentioned all were thrown into a state of doubt as to what was coming.

"We are entering in Mexico," he continued, "upon a new age—an age ushered in for the civilized world by a former president of the United States at the close of the greatest rebellion the world has ever seen. For that insurrection not a drop of blood was spilled after the surrender. I have been given discretion by my government as to the punishment to be meted out for acts that occurred during a period when every man's hand was against every other man. It is not meet in this age, when universal peace is dawning for the world, that Mexico should remain in barbarism. The acts of the troublous times through which we have recently moved belong to a dead past and should be buried with that past. The act of which you have been found guilty was repeated again and again on both sides. That the revolution has triumphed is no cause for committing in the name of justice acts of revenge.

"The finding of the jury is set aside. You are at liberty to go free."

By his address the judge attempted to prepare the feelings of those present for what had neither been expected nor desired. But the temper of the people was revengeful and had for ages been used to a different principle. A few applauded, but the majority grumbled. There were those present who had suffered at the hands of the man to whom this magnanimous treatment had been accorded. They had brought the accusation that they might be revenged—might revenge the dead they loved. They rebelled against the decision. Cries of "Hang him!" "Shoot him!" "Use the machete!" were heard and a movement was made by the most active toward the prisoner. The judge arose and, raising his hand, enjoined silence.

"In striking this man," he said, "you strike the girl who loves him."

"He struck those we loved!" some one cried.

"Let me tell you one thing more, that which I spoke of, but did not speak. You remember that I mentioned the escape of one whom the prisoner would have sacrificed. I am that person."

A silence followed this announcement. That the judge had set aside a sentence of death upon the man who had intended to take his life filled those present with wonder. He had secured their attention. He went a step further.

"I will tell you how I escaped. I owe my life to that girl," pointing. "She it was who gave me a disguise and drove me through her father's guards, risking her life for mine. Had it been discovered that the person sitting beside her was the rebel they were watching for she would have doubtless been sacrificed. If you strike him you strike her, and through her you strike me, who have done my part to establish the governement under which we now hope for peace and prosperity."

The crisis had come and turned in favor of the judge. Those who had opposed his decision stood looking sullenly on, while the others were won over by his magnanimity and by sympathy for the girl who had saved his life. The advocates of taking the law into their own hands began to move away muttering, leaving only those who had been converted to the cause of mercy. Those most sympathetic gathered about the girl, whether for her protection or in sympathy. Then gradually the crowd melted away and left the three principal participants in the drama.

Concia went to the judge, took his hand in hers and kissed it. Her father stood with folded arms looking at vacancy. A short time before he had been expecting death. He was now conscious only that his life had been spared and he feared nothing.

There is a sequel to this story, but this is not the place for it. Indeed, the events narrated happened too recently for it to be a finished romance. One thing is certain. This renouncing of vengeance was brought about by love.

Under the Orator's Spell.

Justice Brewer was once speaking of the oratory of John B. Gough. "I would go home after hearing his eloquence thoroughly elated, but when my father or mother asked me what Gough had said I could not tell them for the life of me. I remember once at a Yale commencement along in the fifties, about the time that I was graduated there, an incident illustrating the force of personal magnetism. Gough was to deliver an oration. He spoke, of course, on temperance. There was a distinguished audience. On the stage were many of the venerable, notable men in New Haven of that day. A large space was clear about the table, for Gough liked to walk back and forth as he talked. He described how a drunkard had beaten his wife and came to his climax with, 'Any man who would kick a woman ought to be kicked out of the universe!'

"He emphasized his words with a vigorous thrust of one foot, whereat every person on the stage, intensely wrought up by the orator, likewise kicked outward as did Gough."—Kansas City Journal.

When Tabby Raises Her Battle Cry.

Despite the cat's softness, laziness, fluffiness and purring amiability, her piercing warery in the night startles and exasperates us beyond all bearing—not by its loudness, but by a certain vicious, weird, half terrifying, half infuriating note in it that makes us spring to arms with the bootjack or other substitute for the boomerang, as the warwhoop of our tribal enemies did a century or centuries ago, says Dr. Woods Hutchinson in Success Magazine.

One of Mark Twain's wise old frontiersman had caught this note when he explained to the tenderfoot that animal speech had rules of composition and grammar, just like human speech, and that "the reason a cat riles ye so ain't on account of the noise she makes, but on account of the sickenin' bad grammar she uses." And he was right, for the grammar of scalp lifting and the whole alphabet of battle, murder and sudden death tingles and screams in the rasping cry.

Two Can Play.

"Waiter," called the irate diner, "there seems to be a dollar on this bill I can't account for."

"Oh, that's just a joke, sir," apologized the waiter. "Just a bet the cashier and I have. I'll have it fixed right away, sir."

"What do you mean about a bet?" asked the diner, detaining him.

"Well, sir, I bet the cashier 50 cents you would see the mistake, and he bet you wouldn't, so I win, sir."

"Suppose I hadn't noticed it?"

"He'd have got the dollar, sir."

"Oh, I see. Give me your pencil." And he wrote a few lines on the back of the bill, folded it up and handed it to the waiter. "Take that to the cashier."

The waiter leaned over the cashier's shoulder as he unfolded the paper. It read:

"I'll bet you $5 that when you send this back you don't find me."

And they didn't.—Lippincott's.

Practical Help.

"Mister," whined the mendicant with the wooden leg, "can't you help a poor old sailor wot has had his leg bitten off by a shark?"

"Dear me!" exclaimed the kind hearted professor. "I believe I can, my poor man. Come around to the college."

After hobbling along for ten blocks the professor led the way through an iron gate and up to his study.

"Here you are, my poor man. Now, don't say I never gave you anything."

The beggar almost toppled over with astonishment.

"W-what's that, sir?"

"Why, that's my latest book on 'Sharks and Their Ways.' If you have that book with you when you fall overboard next time you won't lose the other leg. You'll know just how to dodge them. Good day."—Chicago News.

Earliest Theater.

What was probably one of the earliest theaters built was the theater of Dionysus, which was begun five centuries before Christ. The seating capacity of this remarkable building is said to have been 30,000, nearly four times that of our largest amusement palace. The theater of Dionysus was erected when Greek art and literature were in their prime. Here were presented to appreciative spectators the wonderful works of Aeschylus, Sophocles and Euripides.

A Sickly Diary.

"Look here, old chap, I'll give you a valuable tip," said the experienced married man to the prospective bridegroom. "Don't let your wife keep a diary on the honeymoon. My wife did that, and now whenever we quarrel she brings it out and reads some of the idiotic things I said to her then."

A Serious Joke.

"What has happened to Mr. White, who used to be such a joker?"

"Well, he proposed to his present wife as a joke. She accepted him, and he has given up making jokes ever since."—Dorfbarbier.

Reunion of 125th.

A reunion of the survivors of the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, was held at Huntingdon on Saturday, September 16. Ample arrangements were made for the accommodation of the members attending and a large number were on hand to enjoy the occasion. Forty-nine years have elapsed since this regiment received its first baptism of blood and death at Antietam, and the incidents and personal experiences of that and other battles furnished material for mutual intercourse which was very interesting and revived many memories.

GOOD WORK

Done Daily in Bellefonte Many Citizens Tell of It.

Nearly every reader has heard of Doan's Kidney Pills. Their good work in Bellefonte still continues, and our citizens are constantly adding endorsement by public testimony. No better proof of merit can be had than the experience of friends and neighbors. Read this case:

James H. Rine, 239 W. High Street, Bellefonte, Pa., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills are certainly a wonderful kidney remedy. Ten years ago I first used them and at that time I told, in a public statement, of the benfit I had received. That statement still holds good. I have often urged my friends to try Doan's Kidney Pills and in every instance where my advice has been followed, relief has been received from kidney trouble. Whenever I hear anyone complaining of kidney disorders, I advise a trial of Doan's Kidney Pills, knowing that they will have a beneficial effect.

Prohibits Gambling on Trains.

Prohibition of gambling on the trains of the Pennsylvania railroad is a new order issued by that company. The company has begun imposing penalities on employes who fail to suppress card-playing for money on the trains.

TRUTHFUL ADVERTISING THE BASIS OF SUCCESS.

Since the Ingredients Entering Peruna Are Known, Its Power as a Catarrh Remedy and Tonic is Understood.

COLUMBUS, OHIO.—The active ingredients entering the most popular household remedy in the world have been made known to the public. This means a new era in the advertising of popular family medicines—Peruna leads.

Peruna contains among other things, golden seal, powerful in its effect upon the mucous membranes. Cedron seed, a rare medicine and unsurpassed tonic. Cubebs, valuable in nasal catarrh and affections of the kidneys and bladder. Stone root, valuable for the nerves, mucous membranes as well as in dropsy and indigestion.

State's Big Enrollment.

This year's enrollment at State College will reach upward of 2,000. The Freshman class will number approximately 500. The College opened on Wednesday.

RHEUMATISM

This nerve-racking disease is caused from impure blood and uric acid poison. External applications sometimes give temporary relief but won't cure; the sure way to secure permanent results is to thoroughly eradicate from the blood all the impurities. Nothing on earth will drive out the poisons from your system, keep the bowels, kidneys and liver in good condition as SEVEN BARKS, the wonderful remedy that has proved its great merits the past 42 years.

SEVEN BARKS can be had of all druggists, at 50 cents per bottle. Give it a good trial and watch your rheumatism disappear.

Care of the Teeth.

Do not fail to a thorough examination of the teeth by a reliable dentist at least twice a year. Once the enamel shows ever so little a defect a cavity appears with starting rapidity and many extra dollars and useless hours of pain are the result of a few months' neglect.

When the teeth are being examined have them thoroughly cleaned. There are some parts of the teeth very difficult of access by the ordinary brush. These are reached by the dentist, as are also the crevices between the teeth, the danger points of decay.

This semi-annual cleaning means the preservation not only of the whiteness and brilliancy of the teeth, but of their structure as well. With the corners and crevices relieved by all deposit, it is a comparatively easy task to keep the visible portions in order.

An important issue in the fight against decay is the constant eating of sweets. Sweets spell ruin to the teeth, unless all traces of sugar are removed after the sweets are eaten. When the toilet table is handy, use the brush and a bit of cleaning paste or powder after eating candy or cake.

Do not draw the brush across the gums too vigorously or it will lacerate them, causing them to recede. Select a rather soft bristled brush and operate it up and down on the teeth rather than crosswise. The bristles then penetrate the crevices between the teeth and remove any food particles that may have lodged therein.

Bicarbonate of soda, which is no other than ordinary baking soda, is one of the best of the teeth preservatives and cleaners. Use it once a day as you would tooth powder. Dissolve the soda in water and use it as a mouth wash after eating sweets.

Another simple and efficacious powder for whitening the teeth is made of three and a half drams of powdered chalk, a quarter of a dram of powdered camphor and a half a dram of powdered orris root. Sifting many times is required to mix these ingredients. The addition of half a dram of powdered castle soap will improve the mixture, for those who like saponaceous tooth cleansers.

Notice the part played by shining white teeth in the smile of your friends, and you will realize the importance of keeping yours in perfect order.

"Had dyspepsia or indigestion for years. No appetite, and what I did eat distressed me terribly. Burdock Blood Bitters cured me."—J. H. Walker, Sunbury, Ohio.

Trials of a Candidate.

D. O. Downing, of Port Matilda, one of the three Republican candidates for nomination for Sheriff, was chatting a day or two ago about the trials of the man who starts out in quest of votes. Mr. Downing laughingly remarked that until a man becomes a candidate for office he is unable to realize the number of little things that turn up from day to day and how, in many instances, people are innocently led into believing things which have no foundation whatsoever. Mr. Downing said that one of the amusing things he had encountered along this line was the circulation of a report that he was not a resident of Centre County and that he had but recently moved here from another part of the State. As is well known by his friends, Mr. Downing was born and raised near Loveville, where he remained until he was 23 years of age. During his boyhood he worked on a farm with his father, subsequently removing to Hannah Furnace. From that place he removed to Vail where he lived a few years, finally returning to Hannah Furnace, where he has lived ever since. While the campaign prevaricator is abroad, Mr. Downing remarked, a man who even unconsciously eats questionable butter is in danger of being heralded as an unlicensed dealer in oleomargarine.

Fashions.

Mink is rarely trimmed with any other fur.

East Indian sashes are modish and are made of broad black oral with the ends fringed.

Velveteen and corduroy are two of the autumn fabrics to be made into tailored suits. Neither material is expensive.

A freak of the early fall is to have fur coats trimmed with deep rich fringe.

Some of the new cloth coats are 40 inches long, while 36 inches is a moderate length.

Evening dresses of lace for the coming winter will be black and white, or black and champagne colored lace.

Fur scarfs coming from fashionable furriers are made very wide.

The Prince of Wales tip, which means three feathers, trims a lot of fall millinery.

To disentangle hair that has become matted during illness, dampen it with alcohol and the tangles will readily brush out with little exhaustion to the invalid.

Ten Good Rules for Women.

A financial authority, writing a warning to women investors, lays down the following ten rules in the October Woman's Home Companion for the guidance of women:

1. Six per cent. is a liberal return for the use of money.
2. The higher the interest return, the less sate the investment.
3. Before buying a security find out what you could sell it for if you owned it.
4. Stock extravagantly advertised should never be bought.
5. The personal magnetism of a stock salesman does not add one cent to the value of the stock.
6. Investment, like medicine, is a science practised by experts.
7. Get expert advice concerning investment. You can afford to pay for it, if necessary.
8. The successful banker is the best adviser—when he will advise.
9. Get information about securities from as many sources as possible before buying.
10. Don't invest hurriedly.

In the course of an interesting article he tells several tragic stories of women who have lost the savings of a life-time in foolish ventures.

The Crops.

Bradstreet's Report says: Crop reports are variable, but on the whole are favorable, considering the general shrinkage shown in nearly all northern crops, notably cotton, rice and sugar, all promise as large or larger yields than a year ago. Corn has had about all the rain needed, and warm, dry weather is a prime requisite. Early-planted corn is out of danger from frost, but the main crop still needs one to two weeks of warmth to make it safe. Rainy weather has interfered with threshing of spring wheat and lowered grades somewhat. Frost has damaged grades in Canada, but a bumper crop is assured. Pastures have been greatly improved the country over by rains of August and September, and the animal feeding situation has been helped. Light to killing frosts hurt vegetables, sweet corn and tobacco in the middle states and New England.

Taking into account both acreage and condition, indications are that the wheat crop will be 5 per cent. less than the average annual production of the past five years, corn 2.9 per cent. less, oats 9 6 per cent. less, barley 14.1 per cent. less, buckwheat 1.2 per cent. less, potatoes 19 per cent. less, tobacco 26.9 per cent. less, flax 1 per cent. less, rice 5.5 per cent. more, and hay 26 per cent. less.

W. C. T. U. Convention.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Centre County met in their twenty-eighth annual session in Petriken Hall, Bellefonte, August 29 and 30. The convention was called to order by Mrs. A. M. Clees, at 2 p. m., and after singing "All hail the power of Jesus name," very interesting devotional services were conducted by Mrs. F. M. Gainfort. The roll call showed two State workers, four county officers and twenty-eight delegates present. Reports received from the several unions were very encouraging.

Dr. Thomas C. VanTries was introduced and gave us a very interesting account on his trip South, also a description of the school at Tuskego, Ala., conducted by Booker Washington, and where there are 1700 students. He spoke principally of the religious and moral trend. It was gratifying to us to learn that at this school the use of both intoxicants and tobacco is prohibited.

We were especially fortunate in having with us Mrs. Ella M. George, our State President, also Mrs. Addie B. Parcells, of Philadelphia. These women were a source of inspiration all through the convention, being always ready with words of encouragement. The keynote of the entire meeting was consecration and a united effort to increase our membership, also to take up more department work. Several new superintendents were accordingly appointed.

The evening session was convened at 8 o'clock, and after devotional services Rev. C. W. Winey read an excellent paper on "The crime against God and man." followed by Mrs. Parcells with a complete presentation of the work in all its phases. Too much cannot be said of this talented woman. She must be heard to be fully appreciated.

The election of officers for the ensuing year was conducted by Mrs. George and resulted as follows: Mrs. A. M. Clees, president; Mrs. John P. Harris, vice president; Mrs. V. C. Ridge, recording secretary; Miss Ella Switzer, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Dorothy Shirez, treasurer.

Echoes of the State convention were given by Mrs. Shirez and were much enjoyed by all present, as was also the report on medical temperance by Dr. Edith Schad, in which she told us that she expects Pennsylvania to get the banner this year for sending the literature to the largest number of physicians. The possibility of reaching the coming generation through the T. L. B's., and the L. T. L. A. was next discussed by Mrs. Huston, of Clintondale. The Light Bearers were reported in a flourishing condition, and it is worthy of note that the youngest union in the county has paid $5 to a church so that their Loyal Temperance Legion may have the use of it. Mrs. George gave us some valuable hints in regard to our literature and a number of subscriptions were taken for the different papers, also for State reports.

After appropriate remarks by our president and also accepting the invitation of Centre Hall to meet there next year, the convention closed, each one resolving that the good resolutions formed there should be carried into effect and made to bear fruit.

"Dr. Miles' Nervine Completely Cured Our Little Boy of Fits."

A family can suffer no greater affliction than to have a child subject to fits or epilepsy. Many a father or mother would give their all to restore such a child to health.

"I am heartily glad to tell you of our little boy who was completely cured of fits. He commenced having them at 10 years of age and had them for four years. I tried three doctors and one specialist but all of them said he could not be cured, but Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine and Dr. Miles' Nerve and Liver Pills made a complete cure. He is now hale, hearty and gay. It has been three years since he had the last spell. I shall give Dr. Miles' medicines praise wherever I go. You are at liberty to use this letter as you see fit and anyone writing to me I will gladly answer if they enclose stamp for reply."

Miss Cecelia Haupt, of Bellefonte, recently visited at the home of her uncle, William Kerin, at Moshannon.

Mrs. Michael Kelley, of Altoona, and Mrs. Sarah VanScoyc, of Tyrone, were Bellefonte visitors over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Strawmirer, of Altoona, spent Sunday with the latter's sister, Mrs. Charles McCoy, on Thomas Street.

A marriage license was issued in Altoona on Tuesday of last week to Fred Nixon, of Lamar, and Miss Florence Grainley, of Salona.

Misses Anna and Mary Hull returned home on Sunday from Tyrone, where they had been guests for several days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Dry.

Emory Ripka, who some time ago removed from Centre Hall to Bellefonte, has concluded to return to the former place. Mr. Ripka is a salesman for the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co.

The intercollegiate football rules for 1911 are out and the officials named from Centre County in them are Dr. Fred Robinson, of State College, and John J. Bower and Geo. T. Bush, of Bellefonte.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Crider arrived home on Friday evening of last week after a two weeks visit to Atlantic City. They were accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. Charles K. Rath, of Elizabeth, N. J.

The editor of "The Republican" wishes to acknowledge receipt of a postal money order from George E. Rider, a valued reader at Gatesburg, advancing his subscription to well toward the close of 1912.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Hale, of Philipsburg, arrived in Bellefonte in their automobile last Thursday night and were accompanied home by Mrs. Murry Andrews. All three returned on Sunday and Mr. and Mrs. Hale are now guests at the Andrews home.

Misses Susie Daugherty and Bernice Bowes, of Pine Glenn, have resumed their studies at the Lock Haven State Normal School. Both are bright and intelligent young ladies and are availing themselves of the opportunity to receive an advanced education at one of the best schools in the state.

Miss Clara Hastings, one of the operators at the Bell Telephone exchange is enjoying her vacation and this week is visiting with friends in Howard. Next week she will visit in State College and Orviston. Miss Helen Landis, also a Bell operator, returned on Saturday from her vacation, which was enjoyed in Huntingdon.

Miss Anna Mabel Heckman, a daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Isaac Heckman, was married on Wednesday, August 30, to John W. Hinebauch, of Sunbury. The bride's father was a former pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, at State College. A number of years ago he was pastor of the Penns valley charge of the Methodist Episcopal church.

The Bellefonte members of Jaffa Temple Altoona Nobles of the Mystic Shrines will be quite well represented at their ceremonial session and banquet on Friday afternoon and evening. The Past Imperial Potentate, Fred A. Hines, of Los Angelos, Cal., will be present. There are over fifty of a class of novices ready to tread the hot sands.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Thomas, of near Stormstown, are entertaining their daughter, Mrs. D. W. Daly, of Philadelphia. The Daly automobile was shipped from Philadelphia by freight and it is needless to say that good use of it is being made by Mrs. Daly in pleasure trips for her parents to the numerous places of interest in this section.

It was a pleasure to us to receive a letter several days ago from A. H. Rown, one of our valued readers at Snow Shoe. Al. is a big, jolly fellow and as engineer on the Snow Shoe railroad helps make things go along that line. It is needless to say that his letter to "The Republican" contained an enclosure that marks up his subscription and also helps make things go at this end of the line.

David Chambers, George Uzzell, John Boyce and J. M. Shear, of Clarence, last week came over to Bellefonte in the Chambers automobile. About the time they were ready to start home the machine had one of those attacks of autoitis that happen every now and then and which for the time being seem to baffle the most expert mechanicians. After some little prayerful attention the car started off all right and just as if nothing had happened. The trip was made shortly after a heavy rain storm and they found the roads badly washed at some places.

Walter Cohen, the new manager at Claster's Underselling Store, is awakening things up at that well known business place. Since taking charge of the store Mr. Cohen has had the entire stock overhauled and reassembled. It is quite apparent that he thoroughly understands his business. He is a brother-in-law of Mr. Claster and also of Mr. Shapiro, of Clearfield. Before coming to Bellefonte Mr. Cohen was identified with the big Shapiro store, at Clearfield, and wrote the attractive advertisements for the store which appeared in the Clearfield newspapers. He is a hustler and knows the value of intelligent advertising.

Samuel Gray has enrolled as a student at Princeton.

W. T. Twitmire and Mr. and Mrs. Philip D. Waddle went over to Philipsburg on Tuesday to attend the wedding there yesterday of Dr. Wilbur D. Twitmire, of Lancaster, and Miss Elizabeth S. Fryberger, of Philipsburg.

Mrs. J. L. Runkle on Monday night received a telegram announcing the death of a cousin, Mrs. Lewis McKendricks, at Curwensville. She departed for that place on Tuesday evening to attend the funeral which was held yesterday.

Miss Elizabeth Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Morris, departed on Monday for Raleigh, North Carolina, where she is attending the St. Mary's school. She was accompanied by Mrs. Morris, who will visit for a time with friends in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. S. C. Decker, and Miss Martha Decker, of Altoona, spent several hours in Bellefonte on Tuesday, enroute to Potter's Mills for a brief visit at the John D. Decker home. Miss Martha Decker is a daughter of John D. Decker while Mrs. S. C. Decker is his daughter-in-law.

Professor and Mrs. James R. Hughes will tender a reception to the students of the Bellefonte Academy in the Arcade Hall, on Friday evening of this week, from 8 until 12. Admission can be secured by ticket only. The committees in charge have provided the invited guests with the necessary tickets. Christy Smith's orchestra will furnish the music. In view of the reception, Miss Crissman's weekly dance will not be held this week.

The wedding of two accomplished young ladies who have been cashiers at Josephs store for some time past will occur in the near future. In anticipation of the approaching events both have resigned their positions. One is Miss Keturah Rider, who will become the bride of Van Jodon in October. The other is Miss Grace Blackford, who will be married to Sidney A. Keifer shortly after the Jodon-Rider wedding. Mr. Jodon is one of the right hand men in the offices of the Bellefonte Central Railroad Company. Mr. Keifer is local superintendent for the American Lime & Stone Company.

John P. Harris has been taking a little vacation of late, but it has not been one wholly of pleasure. Some time ago he in some manner poisoned one of his eyes and it became so badly inflamed that he was compelled to drop all work for the time being and wear dark glasses. The dark glasses have been quite an experience for him and on one occasion afforded members of the family no little amusement. Mr. Harris thought that the electric light was unusually dim and was on the point of calling up Superintendent McAvoy, at the Bellefonte Electric Company, when he happened to think about his dark glasses, which of course explained why the lights seemed to be out of kelter.

"The label on my copy of the paper doesn't show up very brightly" remarked genial Emanuel Noll, Pennsylvania Railroad baggagemaster, as he walked into "The Republican" office on Tuesday afternoon. "It needs brightening up a little, so let's attend to it," he continued as he produced a crisp one dollar bill. Needless to say we were willing to obey orders. For several days past Mr. Noll has been entertaining his daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. York, of Detroit, Mich. Mr. York, it will at once be recalled, is the wealthy manufacturer of Malena. With Mrs. York he has been touring in the East in their big automobile. He was unable to remain here as long as he wanted to, but Mrs. York, who before her marriage was Miss Jennie Noll, will visit with her father for the next five or six weeks.

COUNCIL IN SESSION

Bellefonte Solons Dispose of Many Routine Measures.

Bellefonte Council, at its regular meeting on Monday evening, disposed of a large amount of routine business, nothing of a striking nature coming up for consideration. President J. C. Harper was absent and Dominique Judge, of the West Ward, occupied the chair.

The reading of the minutes revealed that a special meeting was held on Monday evening of last week, at which time quite a number of bills were ordered paid. It also developed from the minutes that at the special meeting the recent action of Council in giving Contractor R. B. Taylor a note for $1500 in part payment on State road work was rescinded and a note for $1000 was drawn in his favor. The reason for this was not explained.

A communication was received from the Civic Club urging Council to have the splash boards at the falls, in Spring creek near John Noll's laundry, removed in order that more water may pass over the breast of the dam and carry off refuse matter which now lodges in the bed of the stream in the heart of the town almost daily. Council was asked to have the creek cleaned between the Bush House and the Central Railroad of Pennsylvania station. The creek, between the falls and the water works, has recently been cleaned. The petition was referred to the borough solicitor with instruction to ascertain if Council has the power to order the splash boards removed.

G. Edward Haupt petitioned Council to lay a sewer along the extension of Thomas Street, a distance of about two hundred feet. He explained that he was building a new house at that point and that the sewer was greatly desired. Council approved a motion that an ordinance be drawn authorizing the construction of the sewer, the cost for the same to be assessed upon abutting property owners. The Bellefonte School Board requested Council to authorize the relaying of a sewer in Spring Street, between Linn and Lamb Streets, in order that the sidewalk may be rebuilt and brought to a grade which will eliminate the present steps at the southeast corner of Linn and Spring Streets. It is the intention of the School Board to lay a new sidewalk along Spring Street at the rear of the New High School Building grounds. Council referred the request to the Street Committee and Borough Engineer Wetzel with power to act.

Council authorized the issuing of a warrant to Tax Collector J. Kennedy Johnson for the tax duplicate, which amounts to $23,448.60. His bond was ordered approved and filed. On recommendation of the Finance Committee, Council directed that a note for $1200 and also one for $5000, each for six months, be executed to take up notes for like amounts which fall due before the next regular meeting.

There was some general discussion, but no formal consideration, of the recent action of Borough Auditors W. Miles Walker, Charles A. Lukenbach and John Curtin in delegating to themselves the power of ordering the printing of the annual borough statement. Until last year Council specified where the statement should be printed. Last year the borough auditors assumed the privilege of ordering the printing. They did the same this year. Several members of Council claimed that in so doing the borough auditors exceeded their authority. The matter was brought up for discussion in order that some definite action may be taken to determine whether Council or the borough auditors have the power to order the printing of the statement. Until the auditors present the audited statement to Council no formal action will be taken in the matter.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surface of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

THINK THIS OVER.

You say you can make more from your surplus than a life insurance policy will make for you.

How much comfort of mind will your "increased earnings" bring you when you are ill and face the question of your family's needs?

Mental worry and illness combined speeds death.

Mental ease contributes to longevity.

A Royal Union policy is the greatest balm in the world for that feeling of uncertainty about your family's future if you are no longer here to provide for them, and for the time when age will impair your activity. No policy is better secured or yields a better return to its holder than the ones issued by the Royal Union.
